Event: Free Adult Hearing Screening

Location: Kemp Library

Date: Wednesday October 30th & Thursday November 7th

Time: 5:00pm - 8:00pm for both dates

Purpose: The speech and language pathology first year graduate students are required to conduct hearing screening programs. This is a core curriculum event that will provide an opportunity for the graduate students to gain clock hours needed for graduation as outline by the American Speech-Language-Hearing association. One group has opted to fulfill this requirement by offering a free hearing screening for ESU students, faculty, and staff. The purpose of the screening will be to identify individuals with potential hearing impairments or disorders, provide referral options if needed, and educate the participants on the effects of noise induced hearing loss. The screening will utilize audiometric and otoscopic measures in conjunction with awareness materials. The screening will be conducted by five graduate students under the direct supervision of the departments Clinical Audiologist, Dr. Susan Dillmuth-Miller, Au.D, CCC-A, FAA.

*Appropriate location clearances have been made with the dean's office at Kemp Library.
