

GOOD NEIGHBOR GUIDE 2021-22

EAST
STROUDSBURG
UNIVERSITY

It is essential that the students, faculty, staff and alumni of East Stroudsburg University share a common commitment to stewardship, service and sustainability in our neighborhood, our community, our region. We must continue to look out for one another with compassion, trust and respect in our words and actions in order to overcome challenges and to build unity today and for generations to come.

— Interim President Kenneth Long

A Message From
Kenneth Long
Interim President, East Stroudsburg University

Dear Neighbor,

At ESU, we strive to be good neighbors by living and working in and contributing to the community life of our Pocono region.

As a University, we are very proud of our history in education and community service. Our students, faculty, and staff continue to be part of our community and provide services and support within our local borough and surrounding communities.

On behalf of everyone at East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania, I invite you to partner with us as we make our community a more friendly and safe environment for all. With your help, we can continue to work together to enrich our community.

Best wishes,

Kenneth Long, Interim President

Get to Know Your Neighbors

Take the time to introduce yourself to the residents in the houses immediately around you. If you are uncomfortable reaching out, a great start is a simple gesture of greetings (such as waving hello) to initiate a polite relationship. No matter who your neighbor was previously, every neighbor is singular and unique. It is important to get to know each person individually and give each the opportunity to demonstrate he or she can be a good neighbor.

Be Courteous and Respectful

Our community is filled with neighbors with many different lifestyles that include varied family situations (small children, teenagers, retired, elderly, professional, students), different work and sleep schedules, and diverse comfort levels with pets. Consideration and understanding of these differences is important to develop great relationships in order to limit your impact on others' lifestyles. Awareness of your lifestyle and routine helps to bridge rapport with those around you.

Communication is the Key

Good neighbor relationships are rooted in positive dialogue. Open communication provides opportunities for both parties to ask questions about the community's needs and expectations as it relates to yard maintenance, trash collection, gatherings and more. An open line of communication can prevent minor concerns or issues from turning into major conflicts between neighbors.

Be Willing to Give a Helping Hand

All neighbors need assistance at some point. If you notice your neighbor's yard has litter in or around the yard from storms, animals or other situations, ask if they need help picking it up and be conscious of your litter. If you have an elderly neighbor who needs assistance, extend them your help to rake leaves from their yard, or clear the ice from their porch or sidewalk. Be proactive and lend a hand, you will see how positive your help can be.

Follow Community Ordinances & Avoid Fines

Borough ordinances and codes are crucial to good neighbor relations as they set the expectations for the community. Ordinance topics include, and are not limited to, parking, noise, garbage, snow and ice removal, and rental properties. To see a list of all the Borough codes please visit the following sites:

Join ESU at Campus Events

ESU has many opportunities for education and entertainment. We encourage you to join us by enrolling in classes, celebrating ESU traditions such as Homecoming in October, attending a musical performance, or theatrical play, visiting the planetarium and natural history museum, cheering at a collegiate sporting event, helping with a community service project or participating in programs. To see what is happening during the year and to get involved, please visit the ESU calendar of events website found at www.esu.edu.

Campus and Community Safety

ESU Police Department patrols the campus 24/7, and as necessary, with the support of Stroud Regional Police and PA State Police. Safety is everyone's job so if you are walking alone on or off-campus, please be alert of your surroundings. Always be an active bystander to ensure you and your fellow students are as safe as possible. Don't forget to download the free ESU Live Safe app. Campus police: 570-422-3064. For Emergencies always dial 911.
