Recognition of authors is included in the annual Research, Scholarship and Creative Activity booklet; authors have been recognized in this publication since 2015-2016. The publication, which is celebrated at an annual event, give our community a chance to salute the hard work and dedication of a diverse group of authors from various departments and colleges across ESU. Formed in 2018 and co-chaired by representatives from Kemp Library and the OSPP, the ESU Campus Author Recognition Committee consists of faculty and staff representatives from across the colleges and programs. The committee recognizes anyone who writes, edits or translates a book, and the significant effort and dedication involved in the publication of book. The committee's criteria preclude it from recognizing self-publishing, pay for publisher, vanity publications, course packs, journal articles, or other scholarly writing that is not in book form. These are the only criteria used when reviewing entries. The book may be published electronically or in print.
