Subject: Message to ESU faculty and staff about elections, candidate and party endorsements

As we are all aware, this is an election year with national, state and local elections officially taking place on Tuesday, November 3, with many across the U.S. already voting via mail or in person. While all employees are encouraged to uphold their civic responsibility to vote, please be reminded that official University outlets (i.e. department or college social media accounts, Warrior Notes, listserv messages, etc.) should not be used for the promotion or endorsement of any political candidates or parties. As with any election cycle, please remember that as a public institution we cannot utilize university resources to promote or endorse any specific candidate or party. Any personal endorsements should be shared using one's private communication channels.

Thank you.
