Message From The Department

"ESU Sport Management had another very successful academic year, filled with lots of accomplishments. Happy to announce that our academic programs are granted the COSMA Candidacy Status in April 2018! Service learning projects with the WBS Penguins, Pocono Raceway, and Mattioli Rec Center, field trips, & research presentations continued.

I sincerely thank to all students and faculty/staff for their hard work and commitment to excellence of our program."

Associate Professor of Sport Management

S.C.O.R.E. Symposium

This year's Sport Careers, Opportunity, Recruitment, and Employment Symposium invited a host of sport management professionals and alumni. Josh Olerud, who is the current Team President of the Scranton Wilkes Barre RailRiders, kicked off the event by delivering an exceptional speech about the importance of finding your niche in the sport industry. Following the keynote speaker, the panel provided dialogue between students and faculty about various topics. The S.C.O.R.E. Symposium brings together current professionals in the field and future sport managers in order to enhance each students knowledge of the industry and to provide a platform to network and build relationships. Professional development is one of the many hallmarks of the SMT department and the S.C.O.R.E. Symposium allows students to gain valuable experience from those who have achieved at the highest levels in the sport profession.

Warrior Road Trips

Wilkes-Barre Scranton (WBS) Penguins

Dr. Lee and his undergraduate sport marketing class hit the road yet again this semester to visit the WBS Penguins! The class was met by Jon Stephenson (Vice President of Ticketing), Matt Daube (Season Ticket Sales Executive), and David Casey (Group Sales Representative) to talk about the class project and took a tour the Mohegan Sun Arena. The night was capped off by watching the Penguins defeat the Hershey Bears in a tilt full of action! Trips such as this as extremely valuable to our students as it get them face to face with professionals in the field to learn from.

New York Yankees

A cold, chilly night in the Bronx could not stop Dr. Minkyoo Lee and his facility management class from traveling to historic Yankee Stadium! The group walked the grounds of Memorial Park and toured the museum which was filled with Yankee history and artifacts! The sport management department makes it a priority to visit all kinds of stadiums and facilities each semester, which expands each student's education beyond the classroom.

Philadelphia 76ers

The SMGT club organized another trip which brought the department into the heart of Philadelphia to witness "The Process" first hand! Like all trips, students arrived early to tour the Wells Fargo Center and meet industry professionals. As you can see, the sport management department does a great job of putting students in front of all sorts of professional sports so they can gain a well rounded experience!

ESU Rec Day

SMGT 445 Organization and Administration class hosted the ESU Rec Day at Mattioli Rec Center. ROTC, the SMGT club and other organizations came together to promote the importance of staying active. What makes this event so special are the unique interactive activities that not only promote fitness, but also bring the warrior community together in friendly atmosphere.

Pocono College Tour

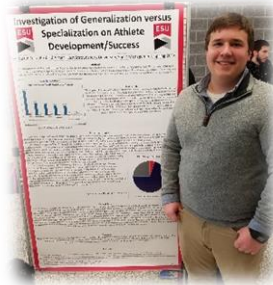

Pocono Raceway raced onto the campus of East Stroudsburg University as part of its College Tour event! Students gathered in Shawnee Quad to participate in games, live music, and to meet NASCAR Camping World Truck Series driver Justin Haley. Also, a new tire changing record was set by student Justin Huber by completing the challenge in 8.1 seconds!

The results are in and ESU is the 2018 College Tour Champion! Countless hours of hard work and dedication paid off big time as the SMGT club reached its goal of a 1st place finish. As a result, the club received the Champions Trophy, and sky box tickets to the NASCAR Xfinity Series Race on June 2nd! Thank you to everyone who contributed to the events success!

Student Research Symposium

Three graduate students in Dr. Minkyo Lee's Advanced Research class and one undergraduate student mentored by Prof. Edward Arner presented their research studies at ESU Student Research Symposium. Megan Carroll, Faith Robinson, and Eric Bohem, & Justin Besz spoke to an audience about various topics relevant in the field of sport management. This event was the culmination of months of hard work and each student did a fantastic job presenting the results of their research!
